

Business Structuring

Do you know what your current business structure is and if it the right structure for you? Does it give you maximum flexibility to grow and diversify whilst minimising your tax obligations?

Whether your business is operating through a partnership, sole trader, company or trust, Nexis Accountants and Business Advisors can determine which one is best suited for your individual circumstances.

Some of the Key things To Consider When Deciding on a Business Structure:

- Asset protection
- Income tax
- Capital Gains Tax
- Admitting new participants (and exit)
- Administration and costs
- Access to profits
- Establishment time frame
- Whether there is a benefit in holding assets of the business in perpetual succession
- Degree of control and management by the principal entrepreneur and/or family
- Ease or complexity of obtaining finance

Business Structuring

"When we were looking to purchase the family business, we were unsure of the structure we should operate from. We met with Michael Talevich from Nexis Accountants & Business Advisors and he took the time to sit down with us and find out our business goals, financial needs and history of the business. From there, Michael identified our needs and other factors which influenced the structure choice. He looked at the type of business, the business risks, as well as the forecasted profitability and cash flow and structured us in a way which allowed for a high level of flexibility and maximum access to cash, whilst still maintaining a lower level of tax.

We are extremely happy with the high level of service, knowledge and expertise that Nexis possess and would definitely recommend them to any business owner wanting to assess their current structure or new business owners like us."

Adam and Olivia Rogan, Discount Glass

